Your Honor,

I have been an electrical engineer for 7 years and have been following this antitrust case since 1995. I have purchased Microsofts new XP Windows because my Windows 98 became so unstable (truely a defective product). XP was $99, up from $89 for Windows ME, up from $79 for Windows 98. I can not believe the software that Microsoft has bundle with the operating system. Windows Media alone competes with dozens of other programs you should have to play for. Clearly Microsoft has not changed their ways. I urge the court impose strong sanction on Microsoft so that competition is restore in this vast market. Microsoft charges too much for their software, its products are defective, the singularity of operating systems with single office software and browsers running on it poses a huge security risk for the Internet.

Please do the right thing.

Thank you for your time,
